Our featured speaker at the June meeting will be Neal Neroutsos, spokesman for Snohomish County PUD. He will talk about PUD's role in a major disaster and how electricity is delivered to our neighborhood.

PGNA Chair, Dean Smith will also lead a short discussion aimed at creating a neighborhood "hub" program that could become a citizen-led communication network when regular lines of communication may not be available in the first days following a major disaster. Please bring your ideas.

If you would like to help Project Homeless Connect this year, please bring hygiene supplies to this meeting for Leasha Brown to take to the July 14 event. Items needed are: soap/body wash, 2-in-1 shampoo conditioner, body lotion, deodorant, toothpaste, toothbrushes, washcloths, and razors.
